

LURALEAN

LURALEAN is a product of Shimizu, Japanese company that proud itself with over 300 years of experience in growing plants and manufacturing plant extracts. LuraLean is made in the strictly controlled process of purification roots of the plant Amorphophallus konjac japonica (Konjac Mannan).

LuraLean has been manufactured in Japan where, Shimizu's staff pays maximum attention to make extremely pure LuraLean of the highest quality.

LuraLean is a premium product with the highest level of concentrated glucomannan . It is , a natural substance with the biggest molecular weight - up to 2,000,000 Daltons .

What makes it even more different from other fibres, so far known, is absolutely natural origin and method of obtaining it and up to ten times stronger effects compared to the currently most widely used fibres in the world , as well as the absence of any allergic reactions .

Three staged process of fibres purification guarantees absolute purity, safety and targeted efficiency.

Extremely high level of viscosity is achieved in the process of purification which removes enzymes and other impurities and it's viscosity remains in gel for up to 24 hours

LuraLean's superior properties compared to all other fibres is reflected in absorption of cholesterol and triglycerides from the body with no minerals and vitamins being removed.

Patented in 37 countries around the world and its effects have been proven in over 100 clinical trials in Japan and across EU, USA, Russia and Canada , of which 14 specifically include very particular medical tests conducted in the world's most prestigious and well respected hospitals.

Statements relating to LuraLean's quality and efficiency were confirmed in many countries and by well known and respected institutions, as:

- EFSA - 2010
- FDA - GRAS
- Food Chemical Codex - Third Edition , Third Supplement
- The Ministry of Health of Japan - confirmed as "functional food ingredient " and "food or food additive "
- Canada - " a natural and healthy product "

LuraLean is included on the EU list of food supplements under no. E-425ii while other Glucomannan - are grouped under no. E-425i.

Please note that Luralean, which is repeatedly purified Glucomannan, has superior effects comparing to standard glucomannan, where remaining enzymes from plants (eg. mannanasse) break the molecular chain resulting in gelling of lower viscosity , thereby reducing the effect and efficiency .

Health characteristics:

- It helps in lowering cholesterol
- It helps in lowering triglycerides
- Increases the feeling of fullness and swelling to 200 times
